DETAILED ACTION

1. Amendment filed on 11/25/05 has been received.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1,3-5,8-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sasa.

Sasa discloses:

Sasa discloses a clutch 2, clutch actuator 21, transmission input speed sensor 33, brake pedal sensor 42, engine speed sensor 13, power adjustment actuator 11, controller 5.

See figure 5 for control of creep. Clutch position is linearly varied with brake actuation and adjusted by corrective factors in order to determine vehicle speed..

Regarding claims 1 and 16, Sasa does not specifically disclose a speed setpoint. Sasa is controlling the clutch engagement to target a specific speed by adjusting for different conditions like load and gradient (e.g. Column 9 lines 2-11). Sasa even allows for the driver to adjust the creep relative to the brake position through device 9. Sasa is targeting a particular speed implicitly rather than explicitly. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use a target speed (setpoint) rather than an implicit target as such is merely a control design. The effect of the two systems is the same as clutch engagement needs to be controlled in order to achieve a speed setpoint. Obtaining a set speed is clearly the object of Sasa or device 9 would not exist.

Regarding claims 3-5, Sasa does not disclose the specific method of detecting brake actuation (force, position, or pressure). All the claimed methods are well known and It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use force, position, or pressure to determine the brake actuation based on factors like cost and reliability and redundancy with other systems like ABS and TCS.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-17 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

5. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
